PROBLEM STATEMENT

The complexity of data domain projects is a major challenge for many organisations. It is important to remember that an MDM implementation must provide access to consistent, up-to-date and reliable data. Data governance is not a one-off project, but a long-term model for managing data, processes and technology. It should be flexible and constantly evolving. When migrating to the cloud, technology selection is just the beginning - ensuring security, data integration and regulatory compliance is a must.
